

The Environment

At Karara, we place a premium value on the environmental and heritage values of the mid-west region where we operate. To protect and enhance the environment and to eliminate or reduce any potential adverse impacts, we:

- Assess and prioritise environmental and heritage matters associated with our activities;
- Never compromise on our environmental or heritage standards and obligations;
- Incorporate environmental considerations in the planning for any work task we do;
- Communicate openly with all our stakeholders on environmental matters;
- Progressively rehabilitate any areas impacted by our operations and activities;
- Engage local communities to manage country in culturally sensitive ways;
- Partner with agencies to support research to understand the local environment;
- Set environmental objectives and measure achievement towards them to continuously improve outcomes and maintain compliance with our obligations;
- Apply and maintain an effective environmental management system, aligned to AS/NZS ISO14001:2004 standards;
- Implement programs to proactively manage regional biodiversity; and
- Meet the minimum legal requirements and regulatory obligations that apply for our business activities.
